Bracken Schools begin building process on newly acquired land

The Bracken County School System will begin the process of constructing a bus garage on recently acquired land on KY 1159 just outside of Brooksville. At present, a new fueling tank has already been installed and is very accessible to the buses. Just beyond the concrete slab in the background of the picture, is the intended location of the bus garage. The property will afford the bus drivers ample parking for their personal vehicles and all the buses in the school's fleet. The new garage will afford much more space to lift the buses up for routine maintenance. At present, the buses can only be raised 18 inches creating a tight area for the mechanic when servicing the buses. As progress is made, more information will be provided as it becomes available.

Thoughts and Meditations from the Scriptures

GETTING OUR LIVES IN ORDER

If you are unhappy with your life, or with certain aspects of it—and everyone has some area of their life that needs work—perhaps it is because you have tried to manage it by yourself. It might relieve you to know that God has a better plan for your life than you do, and it takes a lot of the pressure off ourselves when we decide to live by God’s plan. We aren’t responsible for our being here, since none of us created ourselves, and so it shouldn’t surprise us to realize that our Creator already has a plan for us. We should of course take some responsibility for our own well-being, striving to be as happy, healthy and virtuous as possible, but putting the responsibility for our entire life and life plan on ourselves is too heavy a burden. It is folly to try to be the engineer and director of our own lives. Many of us have lived poorly by following our own path and need some help from God to get it together. Consider God’s word as a user’s manual for how to get your life together. If you’re not sure what God has planned for you, a good place to start in the Bible is the Book of Proverbs. It is filled with Godly wisdom for living a good life. — Christopher Simon

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF AUGUSTA by Roberta Wood

Faith! Faith in what we don't see but know that it is there. I can't see Christ, but I believe with all my heart that Christ is right by me and that He helps me get through each day. He helps get through the rough spots and makes the pain less than if I didn't believe in Him. I pray that each of you have the same peace.

Bro. Tony, used a very special verse Sunday, Galatians 2:20 - "I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; Yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me." I really don't think it could be any clearer than this verse.

Prayers this week: Betty McClanahan family in the loss of a beautiful lady, Jeff Meyers, Packy Hinson family in their loss and the Chalk family in their loss of a loved one.

Heads up, on Grandparents Day, Sept. 10 we will be having Lester Williams and his group at church singing and having fun. After the service we will have a chicken dinner with all the trimmings. So come and visit and fill your heart, later fill your stomach.

Sunday School is 9:30 a.m., Morning Worship 10:30 a.m., Sunday night Bible Study 6 p.m.

BROOKSVILLE CHRISTIAN by John Elfers

When the Apostle Paul cried out to God for relief from his physical pain, the Lord replied, "My Grace is sufficient for you". That line will be important to remember these next few weeks as Ron teaches on physical and mental pain. Why do we suffer? How do we cope? For a preview check out Psalm 88, often described as the saddest Psalm of all.

If you are hurting, know someone who is, or want to learn how to turn pain into gain, join us for a great spiritual lesson.

Church picnic is Sunday at 1:20 p.m. at Maysville/Mason Co. Recreational Park.

Camp Northward's Men's Gathering is Aug. 18.

Sunday evening programs resume Aug. 20.

High School Life Groups resume Aug. 25.

Please keep all our school staff, faculty, and students in your prayers as they begin another year! God bless them all!

PRESBYTERIAN POTPOURRI

by Les Grooms, pastor Augusta Presbyterian

We were back in church after being absent to attend Old Camp Meeting at Ruggles Campgrounds. We had preaching each night and Bible study each morning. We also had lunch meetings with various groups. While we were absent, Sharon Hausman filled in for me in the pulpit and Susie Hargett wrote this column. Appreciation to both for doing an excellent job.

I did my own liturgy this past Sunday. Susie Hargett prepared the communion elements and Bob and Joyce Gibson served the elements. Susie sang a special song while the elements were being served.

After taking a month off, the Soup Supper continued Monday night. This Monday night was breakfast food.

We are continuing to go to Wilder each Tuesday morning to get produce. Bob Gibson, David England, and Scott Deemer take turns going with me. We served sixty-nine families in July from our Augusta Ministerial Food Pantry. Each month more and more are being served. The big boost is that we are getting all the fresh produce from the warehouse in Wilder.

We will have our monthly Bread Basket Meal on Wednesday at 12 noon. This week we will have various grilled meats.

We have church services each Sunday morning at 10:45 and we have adult Sunday School on Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m.

A Birthday Wish

My wife, Sherry Sticklen is celebrating her 60th birthday. Normally this isn't the more celebrated of birthdays like say 16, 21, 40 or even 50. However, in my wife's case 10 years ago she wasn't in any condition to think 60 would even be possible.

A team of first responders and doctors were feverishly trying at first to keep her alive and then hoping to make her comfortable as possible. Those first couple years after she was pinned in her car by a falling tree saw her spend more time in hospitals than out.

Through it all she endured unimaginable pain coupled with set back after set back. Somewhere she tapped into this inner strength that women seem to possess, the ability to handle pain, disappointment and despair better than most men. It's part of their makeup.

During her long recovery Sherry decided not to be defined by this horrific incident. Rather find the will to fight her way out of her abyss. Those who witnessed these last ten years know better than most the struggle she has endured. Even now her fight continues. Her fierce relentless determination gets her through each day and any setbacks that may accompany the injuries that remain.

So this birthday let me openly express my Love and gratitude for this remarkable woman. I've learned so much from her over these years, the life lesson of never give in, never give up and to keep moving. There is a saying in the marines in which she served, "Semper Fidelis" that holds true in our relationship as well "Always Faithful".

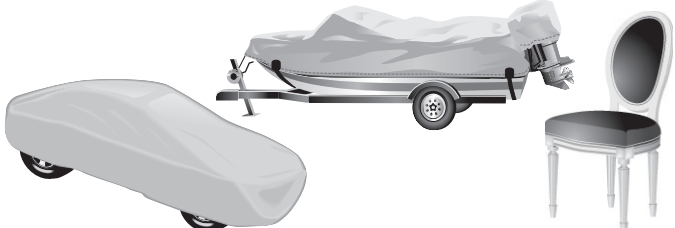

My birthday wish for you is for you to feel whole again.

With unwavering love and steadfast commitment,

Happy Birthday Sherry!

Your Husband, Fred

State Parks will also be working with the Department of Housing, Buildings and Construction to make people aware of the dangers of electric shock drowning.

Electric shock drowning occurs when faulty wiring, equipment or damaged cords on a boat or dock cause surrounding water to be energized with an electric current. There is no visible warning and the electricity is enough to paralyze the muscles of a nearby swimmer, causing them to drown. In some cases, there may be enough current to electrocute the swimmer.

TRASH TALK
by: Mr. Recycle Bin & Ms. Pick-Up Litterbug
606-735-9960

Howdy Folks! It's the start of another school year and once again it's time to be on high alert when driving on our rural roads! Those big yellow buses carry the most precious cargo that the Good Lord has ever given us and we need to ensure the safety of everyone by driving ever so carefully during the morning and afternoon commutes to and from work! Get to know the approximate time that the buses will be travelling on the route you normally take and adjust your leave time to a little bit earlier or maybe just a little bit later to avoid being stuck in the traffic behind the bus! Planning and flexibility are two very necessary components to successful commutes and when those two fail, patience and self-discipline need to step in! Bus drivers not only have to watch traffic, they have a bus-load of students that he/she needs to keep his/her eyes on, so we urge parents to make sure their children know to show respect for each other and the driver by remaining in their seats and minding their manners during their commute! Even though you have no one in school and have no association whatsoever with any school system, education has many branches! As a community member, we may not be the "trunk" or even a "main branch" of the educational tree, but we each are a "small branch" or "leaf" and the health and growth of this educational tree is the responsibility of each citizen! May God bless everyone throughout the community as we begin the 2017-18 School Year!

Each of the three schools in the Bracken County School System and the Augusta Independent School has their own recycling trailer for their use and for the community at large. The trailers were purchased using Recycling Grants from the Division of Waste Management. Grant funds covered 75% of the purchase cost and the districts contributed the remaining 25%. This same financial responsibility includes the trailers owned by the Bracken County Fiscal Court. Once in operation, all nine recycling trailers are taken care of by the Bracken County Fiscal Court through the Office of Solid Waste Management – that would be us – Bin and Bug! Any mechanical problems that occur are aptly fixed by Slim Riggs, mechanic and maintenance, at the Bracken County Road Department! What goes into the trailers is your responsibility and as this new school year begins, we encourage teachers and staff to get more involved with the recycling process and we urge all citizens to adhere to the rules and regulations associated with the proper use of these trailers. It is a violation to put trash into the trailers and it might be a deterrent if guilty parties were fined for illegal use of the trailers. On Sunday when we checked the Taylor trailer, there was a mess on a fender and the ground behind. It seems someone had put a bag of trash into the trailer and an animal got into the trailer, ripped into the sack and removed some contents for their lunch and left the nasty mess! You know if a possum or raccoon is not interested in eating it, it has to be pretty gross! Anyway, let's all start anew as the 2017-18 school year begins and resolve to make recycling a priority and to do so within the rules and regulations of the Mason County Recycling Center! We sincerely appreciate each of you who consistently follow the guidelines of RECYCLING, REUSING and REDUCING to keep God's earth clean, green and beautiful! Be seen' you – Bin & Bug.

State Rep. John Sims, Jr., chosen to serve on Energy & Environment Committee for the Southern Legislative Conference

State Rep. John Sims, Jr., D-Flemingsburg, has been appointed to serve on the Southern Legislative Conference's (SLC) Agriculture and Rural Development Committee, one of the organization's six standing committees that provide a forum for policymakers to share knowledge in their area of expertise with colleagues from 15 states across the South.

Rep. Sims recently received the appointment to serve on the SLC committee from House Speaker Jeff Hoover. The first-time legislator from the state's 70th House District in Bracken, Fleming, Mason and Robertson counties said the position will allow him to protect and promote the state's more than $5 billion agricultural industry.

"Kentucky's agricultural community is central to our Commonwealth's overall economic health and heritage," Rep. Sims said. "I look forward to strategizing on policy issues relating to how we can better support and advocate on behalf of our family farms and our entire agricultural industry. We are so fortunate so have such a variety of markets, including poultry, cattle, soybeans, grains, horses, tobacco, dairy or pork. I also look forward to discussing recent efforts to expand access to locally grown produce."

By working together within the SLC and participating on its committees, "Southern state legislative leaders are able to speak in a distinctive, unified voice while addressing issues that affect their states and the entire region," according to the organization's website. In addition to Kentucky, the SLC includes the states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

Within the Kentucky General Assembly, Rep. Sims serves on the committees for Local Government; Tourism & Outdoor Recreation; and Transportation. Constituents with questions or concerns are encouraged to call the Legislative Message Line toll-free at 1-800-372-7181 or email john.sims@lrc.ky.gov.

Farmers markets increase access to fresh food

By Rhea Landholm, Center for Rural Affairs

There is nothing better than slicing up a ripe garden tomato fresh off the vine. However, some may not have the means to grow fresh vegetables in their backyards.

At the Center for Rural Affairs, we work with rural communities to build healthy, sustainable, local food systems. That includes supporting farmers markets.

Farmers markets expand access to fresh, healthy food in communities that need it most. They provide affordable, competitive prices for low-income families, and many accept food vouchers.

According to the U.S.

Department of Agriculture (USDA), more than 5,000 farmers markets across the country accept Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits, with the number of new locations increasing at an average 40 percent per year.

Vendors are reaping the benefits. In 2014, 362,477 SNAP households made at least one purchase at a farmers market, according to the National Farmers Market Coalition. That means more families are eating healthy and fresh local fruits and vegetables.

Farmers markets also provide beginning farmers a low-cost way to enter the marketplace and grow their businesses. Small and medium existing farms can supplement their revenue by selling at markets, supporting the sustainability of family farms.

The USDA reported 8,675 markets in the country in 2016, up from 2,863 in 2000. Many consumers now have the opportunity to eat food grown within a few miles of their homes. And, that money stays in their small towns, helping local economies.

Find your farmers market in USDA's national directory at www.ams.usda.gov, and join us in celebrating National Farmers Market Week, Aug. 6 to 12.

Registration for Mentor-Youth Dove Hunts Changing

System moves from call-in to online; apply now

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is changing its application process for the popular mentor-youth dove hunts being offered Sept. 2. The hunts allow adults to take kids hunting in dove fields that limit the number of participants.

Traditionally, people had to call the department to sign up for a mentor-youth dove hunt. These were handled on a first-come, first-served basis. By switching to an online registration, more people can apply, with the winners being selected at random. There is no fee to apply.

“The idea behind this is to create a fairer system,” said John Brunjes, migratory bird program coordinator for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife. “People who had the ability to call at 8 a.m. on the first day of registration had an advantage over those who could not.”

Online registration for these hunts is now open and concludes at 4:30 p.m. (Eastern) Aug. 18. Hunters can find dove field locations, maps and online applications at fw.ky.gov, the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife website.

Field locations will also be published in the department’s dove hunting guide.

Kentucky will offer four mentor-youth dove hunting fields this season.

“People have two weeks to apply,” Brunjes said. “Mentors must go online and complete the registration. Then, they can go back to the website on Aug. 25 to see if they were drawn for the mentor hunt.”

Ensure a Healthy Future for Preteens & Teens with vaccines

Parents can do a number of things to ensure a healthy future for their child. One of the most important actions parents can take is to make sure their children are up to date on their vaccines.

Preteens and teens need four vaccines to protect against serious diseases:

- Meningococcal conjugate vaccine to protect against meningitis and blood infections (septicemia).
- HPV (human papilloma virus) vaccine to protect against cancers caused by HPV.
- Tdap vaccine to protect against tetanus, diphtheria, and whooping cough (pertussis).
- A yearly flu vaccine to protect against seasonal flu.

Teens and young adults may also be vaccinated with a serogroup B meningococcal vaccine. Parents can send their preteens and teens to middle school and high school – and also off to college – protected from vaccine-preventable diseases by following the recommended immunization schedule.

ARSA Regional Waste Water Treatment Plant moving forward

By: Jay Yingling

This is the second in a series of articles by ARSA (Augusta Regional Sewer Authority) intended to inform the citizens of Bracken County of the status of the planned construction of a new Regional Waste Water Treatment Plant (WWTP).

A quick review: The process to plan and construct a Regional WWTP was initiated by a 2005 study by the Kentucky Division of Water Facilities. This study had several recommendations. The first recommendation was that the facility be a regional plant to service Brooksville, Augusta and selected Bracken County citizens. It was believed that a regional facility was the only way grants and loan money would be received. The current treatment plants were built in 1970 (Brooksville) and 1978 (Augusta) and were designed with a twenty-year life cycle. Brooksville is twenty-seven years past its life cycle and Augusta nineteen years past its life cycle. Augusta’s WWTP has been in violation of the Environmental Protection Agency’s regulations ten out of the last twelve quarters; Brooksville, six of the last twelve quarters. It is not a matter of if they will have a catastrophic failure, but when. Before that occurs, we are trying to construct a new, single stage activated sludge plant, costing $12.5 million with a twenty-year life expectancy. Once funding is received it is estimated it will take two years to complete. It will have a 690,000 gallon-a-day flow capacity with the ability to support 940 or more households within the region. Location was an initial concern but solved when land was found two miles north of Brooksville, at the intersection of RT 19 and Locust Creek. Bracken County has purchased this property. Earlier sites near Augusta were rejected due to flood elevation and/or the disturbance of ancient Native American burial grounds.

A second recommendation from the 2005 study was that a surcharge of $7.00 per month be placed on the sewer bill to provide funds to curtail the inflow and infiltration of rainwater into the sewer system. At the time, that surcharge was rejected by both cities. Inflow is the illegal connection of downspouts and sump pumps from buildings or residencies into the sewer system. Infiltration is the ground water seepage into the sewer system through joints or deficiencies in the sewer pipes or manholes. To provide an example of the extent of the problem, on June 23rd of this year, Bracken County received a 3-inch rainfall. Brooksville and Augusta’s normal flow to their WWTP is 40/45 thousand gallons a day but during this rain event, over a four-day period, Brooksville’s flow increased by over 350 thousand gallons. Augusta, over this same period, had an increased flow of over 667 thousand gallons!

So, what does this mean to our citizens? It means that thousands of gallons of rainwater are being pumped to the WWTP and then cleaned. Inevitably, this increases operating costs and those increases are passed along to the consumer. ARSA has briefed both City Councils on the inflow and infiltration problem and requested their help. ARSA requested they identify those structures with guttering connected to the sewer system and enforce their respective city ordinances that state this is illegal. The 2005 study identified suspect houses and buildings and a current smoke test could identify more violations. This test is accomplished by blowing smoke into the sewer system and if smoke comes out of a structure’s downspout, there is a violation. Some people may not even know their downspouts are connected to the sewer system. All the more reason the cities should conduct a smoke test. Cost of disconnecting the guttering system would be incurred by the resident or owner of the building. Brooksville appears to be leading the way in this endeavor, having already purchased a smoke tester and prepared letters going to their citizens explaining the process and consequences of a violation.

Infiltration is a more difficult problem to solve since most of it is underground and the infrastructure pipes date as far back as the 1930’s. The 2005 study also identified likely locations of problem areas and our experienced city workers also probably have a good idea of where the problem areas are. Unfortunately, little has been done to curtail the inflow and infiltration problem and if left uncorrected, a surcharge will be assessed to fix the infrastructure.

Understandably, pumping rainwater seven miles from Augusta to the planned WWTP and then cleaning it does not pass the common-sense test. We are currently working with the Engineers to fix a dollar amount to the inflow and infiltration problem and ARSA is committed to providing the lowest cost possible to the citizens of Brooksville, Augusta and Bracken County. Whether a surcharge or actual bill (or a combination of both) is placed upon the citizens to curtail the present inflow and infiltration, the cost will need to cover the operating costs and maintenance, loan repayments, and infrastructure upgrades. The current surcharge of $12.79 a month, to repay an initial loan from KIA, will be eliminated once the new facility comes on-line.

ARSA, which was established in 2014 by the Councils of both cities and by the Judge Executive of Bracken County, has applied to fund this project through grants and loans from The Kentucky Community Development Block Grant Program, USDA Rural Development, and The Kentucky Infrastructure Authority (KIA). The respective city Mayors and Judge Executive recently received correspondence from KIA that stated that in order to continue with the necessary credit analysis and evaluation of the funding from their organization, the ARSA ordinance must be modified by the City Councils to allow the ARSA Board sole responsibility for setting and adjusting rates to maintain the financial viability of ARSA. This modification must be received and approved before the KIA’s next Board Meeting on October 5th to receive the requested funding package which includes an interest rate of 0.25% and $1,300,000 of principal forgiveness. If that deadline is not met, and our request becomes part of fiscal year 2018, the interest rate rises to 0.5% with no guaranteed principal forgiveness.

We have known about this problem since 2005 yet nothing has been done. To ensure we receive funding for the WWTP, we can wait no longer. We must work on a plan now to reduce the sewer costs for the citizens of our community!

Stop in and see me now at on the AA Highway in Maysville!

Germantown Fair
*By David Appelman, CEA
Ag and Natural Resources*

We completed the local official end of summer this past week with the Germantown Fair. It was a great week working with all the kids and their families that participated in the livestock shows. It started with the District Hog Show on Monday with 286 pigs shown from many different counties in the region. It was a tremendous show and a great crowd to support the youth. On Tuesday, the Fair livestock show started with weigh in, and showmanship that evening. This is the time for the showpersons to bring their talents and hard work to the ring. All their hard work over the summer, training their animals so they could present themselves in the best way possible, was highlighted that evening. The real treat for the night was our judge, Mr. Warren Beeler. He is well known for judging livestock shows and worked for KDA for many years and now heads up the GOAP. He has judged at Germantown numerous times and it is always a pleasure to work with him. As the kids presented their animals to him to be judged on their abilities to show them at their very best, he offered suggestions and words of encouragement to each child. His enthusiasm continued all throughout the long evening, as the classes proceeded in each species. At the end of the evening, he selected the top showpersons in the round robin competition from the top 12 individuals. His words of encouragement to the kids saying they were all winners was very evident as they greatly appreciated all his work. There were lots of handshakes and even a number of hugs from the kids and many of the parents showed their appreciation as well.

Following the showmanship contest, the livestock show took place on Wednesday with 319 animals presented to be judge. Over the course of the day, the judge selected a grand and reserve grand champion along with the home grown champions in each species. I think this is important to recognize the youth that are raising and developing their own animals.

The grand finale, was the Youth Livestock Premium Auction on Thursday evening. The sale barn was full of supporters. The auction started out strong and stayed that way throughout the 3 1/2 hours it took to present the 176 kids and their projects, It is a true testament for the support we receive from the area businesses for this great program.

Be sure and look for the auction list in the paper and thank those businesses that support the auction. Many of these premiums the kids receive are saved for college or are used to invest in additional agricultural projects. Thanks again to all those who participated in the auction and congratulations to the kids and their families for a great fair.

Now on to the state fair with many of our champions!
